Grissom, Young Slated For Flight

Ahead Of Schedule CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - After months of delay, the Gemini program is picking up

As a result, Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young may make America's first twoman space trip next month, instead of in April. Three more tandem crews may follow them into orbit during 1965. There have been rumors all week at this spaceport that the National Aeronautics and Space

Administration was aiming for a late March date for the Grissom-Young flight. Thursday night the spacecraft suddenly was moved to the launching pad six days ahead of schedule. The Titan 2 booster rocket has been on the pad since NASA normally keeps its launching dates secret until 10 days before a scheduled launching and it has said only that the first manned Gemini flight is slated in the "second quarter of 1965," which starts April 1. (AP) - monetary position and keep the However, it is known here

This is one way to press a J&F suit with "Crease Control"

Just hang it up!

The J&F "Crease Control" process chemically trains the natural fibers to resist wrinkles and to hold the permanent crease in the trousers. The suit fabric is treated before tailoring, so that the fibers are especially aligned. This gives the fabric the ability to retain a permanent trouser crease and improved collar to cuff wrinkle resistance. Don't confuse this exclusive process with methods that just force in a rigid trouser crease. "Crease Control" is much more.

Everything But The Practice

It cannot be predicted with certainty that Ohio this year will pass a strip-mine bill strong enough to deal with the stripmine problem.

But it can be predicted with certainty that everything about the strip-mine problem now has been settled, except the final settlement-a strong law.

No one argues any more that there is no problem, or that the problem can be ignored. No one says land ruined by stripmining is part of the price of progress, the American way of life and no one should give it a second thought. Many people used to say that.

Even the strip miners now concede they have no God-given right to make an unsightly mess of the land and can claim no legislative right to do it much longer.

The legislative correction, of course, is not to pass another strip-mine bill; that would do no good. The correction is to beef up the penalty for failing to restore strip-mined land to a specified usable

In the past it has been economically feasible to ignore too-light penalties for walking away from the mess and letting posterity worry about it. Since the whole thing is a question of economics, the penalty must fit the crime. When that is done, the strip-mine problem will be solved.

The principle of reclamation after strip mining has been established.

Whisky By Badge Only?

A Tribute To Tom M. Girdler

Some of our Cleveland neighbors are using such a remarkable argument in favor of legalizing Sunday sale of hard liquor that we want to share it.

These agile-minded Ohioans are arguing that the state should change its liquor laws to permit Sunday sales so convention cities can take care of delegates whose thirst never takes a day off.

They say they want to limit Sunday sales to convention cities. Therefore, the license for Sunday selling should be expensive, they explain. This would keep other cities' liquor sellers from taking advantage of the Sunday privilege. It would be too expensive, they say.

They are admitting, in other words, that opening all bars on Sunday would not be a good thing. Sunday drinking should be limited to convention cities—to visiting firemen-no others need apply. That's their story.

Do our Cleveland neighbors using this tortuous argument really think Sunday liquor sales would be confined to convention cities? And by the way, what is a convention city?

Do they really think the profit prospect would be so dim if the Sunday license was jacked up high that bars wouldn't apply for Sunday licenses hither and yon? Is the profit margin that skinny?

Or do these ingenious pleaders for Sunday liquor sales intend to purvey the stuff only to customers wearing convention badges?

In that case, we want to get a license to sell convention badges.

The Pattern Of Strikes To Come

By Victor Riesel the white collar pickets were supplied by the SIU.

There was a nautical touch to the month-long social service strike which almost went unobserved in the storm raised by the crippling of the half a billion dollar New York City Welfare D e p artment the world's biggest.

Behind the college - bred pickets of two white collar Victor Riesel unions were solid rows of union sailors deployed on a military basis. And behind the solid scores of able-bodied phalanxes was labor's own Viking, the solidly-built Paul Hall.

He wears three hats. Hall is president of the Seafarers International Union (SIU), national AFL-CIO vice president and head of its Maritime Trades

With Mr. Hall's support the two striking unions, the Social Service Employes Union and the State, County and Municipal Employes were ready to strike

Strong support it was. Significant, too, because it is the pattern for similar strikes which may hit many other city governments in coming months.

SINCE PICKETS, like armies, 'move" on their stomachs, the Seafarers International supplied them with 3,000 sandwiches a day right through the strike which ended last Monday morn-

To wash this food down, the SIU poured over 100 gallons of coffee a day for the pickets. To bolster the morale and add sound to the fury of the strikers who ran the longest walkout in recent municipal history, the SIU operated a fleet of 18 "strike wagons." These are high - powered station wagons with loud speakers "in the rig."

The "strike wagons" not only moved food and union literature, but manpower as well.

The SIU is as self-sufficient as a union can be. Therefore, it owns its own picket sign plant -a commercial subsidia which turns out sharp appeals to the public. For one demonstration of the Welfare Dept. strikers at City Hall, the Seafarers whipped up 4,000 signs by a silk screen process.

IN FACT, all signs used by ings, were predominantly men and women with college degrees, and Hall thought they needed an injection of physical strength on the icy streets For a seafarer, Paul Hall thinks like a land-based com-

EACHUNION dispatched some of its people to the offices he supplied at 17 Battery Pl. He made it a tripartite effort by putting some of his aides alongside the two other groups.

Then the city was "cut up" into five regions. In each district there were six picket lines At each line, Hall placed "three captains" and some of his 'troops.

These came from a mobile contingent of 200 sailors. Behind the 200 men was a special headquarter's squad of 30 Seafarers International "pros." These men were his own colleagues in the SIU high command.

These were experienced strike hands. They were of comfort to the Social Service Employes Union's youngsters as well as to the more experienced rank and file of the State, County and Municipal Employes. The latter were led by their national president, Jerry Wurf, who flew in from Washington and remained in constant touch with Hall. The two are intimate friends.

IN ADDITION, the Seafarers, never tight, threw thousands of dollars into the strike kitty

Because of Hall's political stature inside the national AFL-CIO, such friends of his as George Meany and Dave Dubinsky were brought in. Thus the strike really developed into an assault from within as well as from without the city's political leadership.

Hall unhesitatingly states that this will be the pattern of strikes of municipal employes in other cities. Strike leader Jerry Wurf, who built his membership up from less than 1,000 city employes in Gotham to more than

His union is part of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Dept., which is organized into 32 Port Councils on all coasts and on the Great Lakes. The strategy developed in New York will be the pattern in those other cities. The municipal employes, flanked by the sailors, are on the march.

REPUBLICANS in Congress have wrestled with the problem of how a "loyal opposition" should be conducted, but they have come up with no solution.

The truth is the members themselves, as well as the leaders, are so involved with detailed work that, except in occasional conferences, there isn't time to deal with over-all policies and party strategy.

Suggestions have been made again and again that the opposition party should maintain a regular staff of specialists to study the various issues of public policy and to come up with thorough analyses and criticisms that can be presented day by day to the people.

Probably the only way to support such a project is to form a citizens' organization, which would be an adjunct of the Republican policy committees in Congress. It takes a lot of money to organize an opposition which can compete with the hundreds of specialists and staff workers who are paid out of taxpayers' funds in the U.S. Treasury but work for the party in power.

Perhaps the most pointed criticism on a major issue has come from a Democrat - Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio. He is one of those conscientious members of Congress who says what he thinks irrespective of what its effect may be on his own

HE DECLARED in a speech about the "Appalachia" relief bill that very soon practically every part of the country will be petitioning for the same type of government subsidy. He said:

"The prospects are that there will be six new areas of the country which will come under the proposed program. I visualize that within two years there will be 'Appalachias' in every part of the country."

The issue is not new-it's the same old pork barrel problems which has been plaguing the U.S. Treasury for many decades. The Republican party has available a major issue on this point, and sooner or later will have to educate the average citizen on how the continuous deficits and excessive spending can weaken the purchasing power of the dollar.

Maybe the Republican party will eventually become a "loyal opposition," but there are little signs of it as yet.

The question of the feasibility of adding fluoride to the city water supply is again confronting City Council. While we are noting such cities as Salem. Lisbon and others in Ohio have put this system in effect, let's consider some others which by official action or by referendum have rejected the idea. Among these are such cities as Cincinnati, Akron, Detroit, Columbus, Seattle, New York, Schenectady, and many, many more.

Let's consider some of the scientific and medical authorities who have voiced their protests or have come to conclusions in their evaluations of this toxic chemical contrary to those of the proponents of fluorida-

Dr. Benjamin Nesin, director of laboratories for the New York City water supply, said, "It would be hazardous to assume that fluoride is physiologically inert except for its action on the teeth. The possible avenues of fluoride involvement are tortuous, insidious and subtle, and at the present time defy understanding.

Dr. Paul H. Phillips of the University of Wisconsin; "It is a cumulative poison which accumulates in the skeletal structures, including the teeth. In this respect it is like lead accumulation in the bone until saturation occurs and then lead poisoning sets in.

Dr. Robert S. Harris, professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology: "Fluoride is a toxic element which has been shown to interfere with important processes in the body.

James J. Rae, Ph. D., associate professor of chemistry at the University of Toronto: "Fluorides are deadly poisons. The fact that fluoride at one part per million does not cause acute poisoning does not alter the fact that eventually chronic intoxication will occur.

Food and drug laws of Canada prohibit the addition of fluorides to food in any concentration no matter how small

According to a revised publication by a citizens committee of La Crosse, Wis., Dr. Alfred Taylor, Bio Chemical Institute, University of Texas, found that the development of cancer and other fatal diseases was accelerated by the ingestion of fluoridated water in the amount of one part per million.

In a recent article describing a legal case involving fluoridation in Dublin, Ireland, Prof. D. G. Steyn, professor of Pharmacology and Toxicology University of Pretoria, South Africa, stated that in his opinion it is the young children most of all who will suffer harmful effects from drinking water containing 1 p.p.m. of fluoride, apparently believing that an excess of fluoride in the diet leads to brittle and chalky teeth, that are easily broken. The same opinion was expressed by Prof Anton Gordonoff, professor of Toxocology and Pharmacology of Berne University, Switzer-

Council Fills Vacant Post For Industry

James H. Shevenaugh of Overlook Dr. was appointed to Industry Council Wednesday night, to fill the unexpired term of Matt Bertovic, who submitted his resignation.

Shevenaugh's term will ends Dec. 31, 1967. He was sworn in by Mayor W. B. MacBride. Bertovic resigned because he is moving from the area.

Donald R. Haswell was appointed to a six - year term as a member of the Municipal Authority, replacing Fred Wilton, whose term expired in Decem-

Walter Bratich was reappointed dog law enforcement officer for another one-year term, and Clyde Piquet was named chairman of the public works, utilities and recreational committee, succeeding Bertovic.

James Muns, chairman of the finance committee, presented the budget of $41,811.53 for second reading.

Tax rates will remain the same - 10 mills on real estate and 3 mills per capita.

The budget will be open for 10-day public inspection beginning Saturday at the home of the Council secretary, Mrs. John Parsons. Hours will be 1 to 5

A special meeting was set for Feb. 17 at the Borough Building to adopt the budget.

FINGERNAIL BANDS Q. I have rather broad, white bands running across each fingernail. My toenails are also affected. Could this be due to some kind of A. It would be advisable to consult your doctor. It may be of general interest to note that the nails provide a long-lasting record of temporary changes in skin pigment. For example, certain drugs cause darkening of the skin and nail beds, leaving a dark band. Other drugs cause temporary lightening of the skin and leave a light band in the nails. In such cases the band disappears as the nails grow and are trimmed. ATHLETE'S FOOT TREATMENT PROMISING Q. I have had athlete's foot for at least ten years. Nothing helps. What am I to do-just A. If you have not yet done so, consult your physician or a dermatologist (skin specialist). By way of encouragement, a new drug now used extensively in Australia to prevent worm infestation in sheep has been found effective against a fungus that causes athlete's foot in man. Two New Jersey scientists first tested the drug, called thiabendazole, in guinea pigs infected with the fungus. The drug completely cleared up the infections in less than a day. Thiabendazole is currently being tested experimentally in humans. However, it is not available

Tebbetts Sees Contender . . .

Although it was freezing outside, the Cleveland Indians teepee was warmed by the fire from Birdie Tebbetts as he described the Tribe's chances in 1965 at a get-together for district sportswriters earlier this week in Youngstown.

Tebbetts sat at the head table, where also were two of the Tribe's latest additions - Rocky Colavito, who signed Wednesday morning for $50,000, and Chuck Hinton, a speedy outfielder from the Washington Senators.

Birdie, who sat out a good part of last season after suffering a heart attack, didn't hide the fact he was happy to have Colavito and Hinton on the roster. We'll be a contender this year. Three years ago Gabe Paul told me we have to build, it may take time

Colavito was quite sincere when he told the press, "I am very happy to be back in Cleveland and back in Ohio. I was raised with the Cleveland organization and I came from a last-place team, but feel we can finish in the first division this season."

severe and profound."

Sheriff's Sale Of Real Estate General Code, Sec. 11681, 12037
THE MAJORITY of retardates, about 85 per cent, fall into the "mild" group. Their intelligent quotients (which is not always a precise measure) are between 50 and 70. An I.Q. of 100 usually is considered normal. The I.Q. range of "moderate" retardates is from 35 to Mild retardates may appear to be normal but are backward in certain ways. They may learn to read and write up to "severe and profound."

Junior Editors Quiz on-BUBBLES

QUESTION: In boiling water, where were the bubbles, before they started to move up?

ANSWER: Before the water boiled, there were no bubbles. The bubbles formed on the bottom of the pot or container. It should be easy to understand this by remembering that matter has three states: solid, liquid and gaseous. Ice is the solid state of water, water is the liquid state, and the gaseous state of water is "water vapor," some of which is always in the air, even if we don't see it. When you warm ice, it melts or changes into the liquid state of water; and when you heat water to the boiling point, the liquid water begins to turn into the gaseous state. The bubbles forming on the bottom of your pot were the parts of water, nearest the heat, turning to gas. They were pressed by the water around into circular shapes of bubbles. Light things tend to rise in water, and so the bubbles are forced up by the heavier water and pop out of the surface, where they escape into the air. This hot steam, meeting the cooler air above it, condenses into a mist formed of tiny water droplets. We often incorrectly call this mist steam. Steam means water vapor,

FOR YOU TO DO: Heat some water in a pot and watch the bubbles form on the bottom, very small at first, much larger when the water boils. Warning: don't use anything of transparent glass, as it will crack-unless it is a special kind made for use over a stove, such as Eddie is looking at in the or the gaseous state of water before being condensed.

Christine Etheridge of Fresno, Calif., wins this week's grand prize of a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you may win the weekly prize or the daily prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash.

Losing Battle

Dear Ann: I pasted a guy in the mush because he said something fresh to my girl. Now she won't speak to me.

Last night we were at a restaurant and a loud drunk in the next booth kept hogging the juke box and playing the same record over and over. I asked him to knock it off. He said he liked the record and was going to play it at least a dozen times more

I told him my girl hates the record and it was making her sick. He called her a mopey, bowlegged broad so I let him have one right in the kisser.

The owner of the restaurant threw us out. Now my girl says she wants nothing to do with a roughneck who fights in public. Nominees Enter Honest, Ann, it was just like I told you. Please help me. 43 Acceptances

Dear Ann: I was especially pleased to hear you roast the time-honored (and insulting) practice of men huddling at parties and ignoring the women.

This is a junior high school stunt-boys on one side and girls on the other. I refuse to believe that men and women must be segregated tion for both. When we entertain I remain firmly rooted in the living room with the girls. This forces the men to come in from the kitchen and the back porch.

Since the separation of the sexes is a common social practice I wish you'd lambaste it one more time. Thank you. MR. J. H. B. OF GREENS-

Dear J. H. B.: You are a generous man, indeed, to lace the blame on the males. I happen to believe it's the women who are at fault. When they begin to play "PTA," or "Wardrobe," or "Kitchen," or "wool, jersey.
